

Troy University
2009 eCampus eColloquium
Tech Savvy Teaching for Global Online Students
May 6-8, 2009
Location: Online

CALL FOR EXEMPLARY COURSES

Is your online course outstanding? Do you incorporate technology in meaningful ways? Troy University would like to recognize you. The 2009 eCampus eColloquium Committee is issuing a call for exemplary courses.

To enter your course, send an abstract no longer than 500 words by February 27, 2009, to Faculty Trainer Lee Scarborough at lscarborough@troy.edu. Tell us how you use technology to enhance learning in the online environment. Be sure to include the name of your course. Entries will be reviewed by a three-person panel consisting of a TROY online faculty member from your college, an instructional designer, and the eCampus faculty trainer.

In addition to being recognized with the 2009 eCampus Exemplary Course Award, the winning faculty member will receive a mini-laptop. The instructor's course will be featured in a brief video created by the Instructional Design & Educational Resources Team at eCampus. The winner's abstract, along those receiving honorable mentions, will also be highlighted on the colloquium Web site.

For more information, contact Lee Scarborough at 334-983-6556, ext. 1-314.