Confucius Institute at Troy University Celebrates 2019 Chinese Spring Festival

Series VI - Students and Teachers from Troy Elementary School Visited CIT

On February 4, 2019, during the Chinese New Year, more than 50 students from the fifth grade of Troy Elementary School visited the Confucius Institute at Troy University to celebrate the Spring Festival. Visiting scholar He Jing introduced Exhibit Hall of Confucius Institute to the students, including: Chinese tea culture, Chinese costumes, Chinese kung fu, Chinese musical instruments and Chinese calligraphy. The students were curious about Chinese calligraphy. After the lecture, visiting scholars of the Troy Confucius Institute took the students to the classroom to experience Chinese calligraphy. They told them the meaning of the Chinese word "Fu" and taught them to write "Fu" in Chinese Character. This event not only made the students feel the joy of the Chinese New Year, but also aroused their interest in Chinese characters. After writing "Fu", students asked to write their names in Chinese. At the end, a group picture was taken to conclude this happy activity.
