EMPLOYEE FEATURE**

I AM A LIBRARIAN: Class of 1957 (B.S. with a major in Library Science from Mississippi University for Women); Class of 1967 (M.L.S. from the University of Mississippi).

I AM A LIBRARIAN: After cataloging, recataloging, and reclassifying books from the Dewey Classification to L. C. at the University of Mississippi; after cataloging books from the Washington County Library in Fayetteville, ARK (and having a baby); after pushing books on a bookmobile for the Ouachita Parish Public Library in Monroe, LA; after cataloging books for the University of Mississippi Law School and attending graduate school full-time; after teaching two years in the Library School at the University of Mississippi; after being Public Services Librarian, Reference Librarian, and then Assistant Librarian at the Cape Girardeau Public Library in Cape Girardeau, MO; after being Coordinator of Reference Services of Walworth County Library Services in Lake Geneva, WI.

Am I A LIBRARIAN? I am now the Coordinator of the Learning Resource Center at Troy State University at Dothan, AL. BUT AM I A LIBRARIAN? I can operate a 16mm and a 35mm film projector; an overhead, an opaque, and a slide projector; a filmstrip viewer and projector; a TV camera; a record player, a video, tape and cassette player; a filmloop machine; I can even splice a damaged 16mm film. I can repair an IBM II-copy machine

as well as JM microfilm and microfiche machines -- and make change for these various machines. I have learned to soothe faculty members when film bookings do not arrive on schedule. I know how to use all the various periodical indexes; how to check in and out periodicals. AND best of all, I can help students. I AM A LIBRARIAN.

The above philosophical essay was written and submitted (and rejected) to The Southern Librarian in 1982. Since that time, Mrs. Long has assumed her "contract title" of Assistant Librarian, TSU-Dothan Library. She has also been involved in moving the TSU-Dothan Library two times and is presently involved in moving the TSU-Fort Rucker Library to the Dothan location.

Mrs. Long and her husband, Dr. Robert J. Long, Associate Professor of Economics, came to Dothan in September 1978. Their one daughter, Gretchen, is a December 1981 graduate of TSU-Dothan. Gretchen is a computer analyst with NCNB/ Banker's Trust of South Carolina, in Columbia, SC.

The Longs enjoy gardening, walking, reading, and playing dominoes. As Mrs. Long says, her husband has never interfered with her career in their 26 years of marriage. He admits he may have interfered with her "outside" professions -- being an "old maid" and being "a bag lady."
