TSUD RECOGNIZES DISTINGUISHED STUDENTS

Four outstanding students were recognized recently during an awards ceremony at Troy State University at Dothan.

TSUD takes pride in its efforts to recognize outstanding students through various activities including honor societies, commencement ceremonies, and the Spring Honors Convocation. Dr. Jack Sublette welcomed family, friends, and university personnel by saying, "This ceremony is special because we honor only four recipients as compared to the larger numbers recognized during Honors Convocation and commencement."

Facing adversity in achieving their educational goals, going "above and beyond" in service to their community, excelling in their professional activities, providing service to the University, and showing a uniqueness because of circumstances or personal attributes are some of the criteria used in selecting the outstanding students.

Ms. Helen Livingston, chairman of the Student Recognition Committee, introduced the TSUD staff who nominated each recipient. Each recipient was recognized and introduced by her nominator and was presented a plaque from Dr. Thomas Harrison. A reception followed the ceremony.

Receiving awards were Angela Farmer, Dothan; Erin Kelley, Ozark;

Edith Lawson, Ozark; and Sara Shields, Malone, FL.

CHANCELLOR HAWKINS PRAISES TSUD'S EFFORTS IN INNOVATION

How ironic that the 1992-93 budget requests for higher education institutions in Alabama were presented to the Alabama Commission on Higher Education (ACHE) in a time of 6 percent proration during American Education Week, which is a time to recognize progress and quality in education.

Proration, increased tuition, program reduction, layoff, hiring freeze—all are unpleasant terms heard in today's education arena.

However, Troy State University at Dothan continues to march forward against the adversities caused by proration. How is this being accomplished?

Dr. Thomas Harrison credits the University's progress to enrollment increases and an increase in tuition. "As money has been lost from the State, we have been fortunate to experience enrollment increases," stated Harrison. "Increased enrollments and an increase in tuition have kept TSUD afloat," he added.

TSUD has experienced an enrollment increase for the past seventeen quarters and is anticipating the trend to continue for the 1992 Winter Quarter in January.

TSUD currently offers day and evening classes, weekend classes, and telecourses. A Winter Interim session will be offered December 2 - 18.

The interim session is another innovative approach to meet the needs of the non-traditional student population at TSUD.

Although needs have increased, TSUD has been unable to add faculty and staff to meet these needs. The University has simply asked existing personnel to do more with less.

At the recent budget presentation in Montgomery, Dr. Jack Hawkins, Jr., Chancellor of the TSU System, stated, "I continue to marvel at the creativity displayed at TSUD and TSUM (Troy State University in Montgomery) in their efforts to serve working adults. Both have been innovative in scheduling and delivering courses designed to make higher education accessible for the citizens who depend on them for opportunities for personal and professional growth."

Due to proration, TSUD has been unable to allocate funds for expanding programs and facilities, for hiring additional personnel, and for purchasing needed equipment.

To paint an even gloomier picture, TSUD is at the bottom of the State's funding ladder. This past year, TSUD was funded at only 58% of documented need. This means that remaining revenue must be provided through tuition, fees, grants, and private resources.

SANDRA L. JONES RECEIVES DOCTORATE

Congratulations to Dr. Sandra L. Jones for receiving her Ed.D. from Auburn University on November 15.

Her dissertation is entitled Differences in Study Attitudes and Methods of Traditional and Non-traditional College Students.

DR. GILBERT SPEAKS TO DOTHAN ADVERTISING FEDERATION

Members of the Dothan Advertising Federation (DAF) had the privilege of hearing Dr. Adair Gilbert speak at their monthly meeting recently.

Dr. Gilbert, President of Gilbert and Associates, a consulting firm aiding clients in the implementation of quality programs, provided a presentation on "Basic Research Techniques" in the area of survey administration. This was her second presentation for the DAF.

Dr. Gilbert was introduced by DAF member, Dan Richards, who is completing his master's degree in personnel management at TSUD.

At the conclusion of her presentation Dr. Gilbert responded to several questions from the membership.

TSUD HOLIDAY LUNCHEON UNVEILS NEW EXPANSION

TSUD faculty and staff were treated to a delicious holiday feast and were provided an opportunity to view the new TSUD Continuing Education Center at Northside Mall, as they gathered with retirees and special guest to celebrate the coming holiday season.

Following a very pleasing lunch, Dr. Jack Sublette offered brief remarks regarding the Thanksgiving season and introduced TSUD retirees and their spouses and special guests attending the luncheon. Door prizes, provided by Northside Mall, were awarded to lucky participants.

Dr. Debbie Goodman presented an overview of the history of the TSUD Continuing Education program and thanked everyone for their contributions and support.

The luncheon concluded with remarks from Dr. Thomas Harrison.

TSUD CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTING

The SGA is sponsoring a Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony on campus December 12, 1991, 6:00 p.m. in front of Malone Hall. The University would like to make this an annual event for faculty, staff, students, and the community.

The tree will be lighted, refreshments will be served, and entertainment will be provided. The Wallace Community College Choir and the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Choir will sing, and the TSUD Community Band will present a Christmas concert. Additionally, Santa Claus will visit with the children and be available for photos with them.

Everyone is asked to donate a can of food to go to charity to make someone's holidays happier.

This will be an entertaining and meaningful experience and the SGA would like for faculty and staff to attend as well as to bring your family and friends.

FOREIGN STUDENTS CHOOSE BUSINESS OVER ENGINEERING

Business was the subject most often studied by foreign students at the nation's colleges and universities last year, surpassing engineering, which had ranked first for 40 years, a survey by the Institute of International Education (IIE) shows.

The survey also indicates that the number of foreign students at U.S. higher education institutions rose to an all-time high of 407,500, increasing 5.3 percent between 1989-90 and 1990-91.

China was the leading country of origin for foreign students for the third straight year, followed by Japan, Taiwan, India, and Korea, the survey found. Asian students comprised 56 percent of all foreign students in the U.S. last year.

Recent changes in Eastern Europe allowed the number of students from that region attending U.S. schools to grow by 42 percent between 1989-90 and 1990-91. Most of the significant growth has been in students from the Soviet Union, Poland, and Hungary.

Foreign students strongly prefer four-year institutions over two-year colleges, and enroll disproportionately at private colleges and universities, the survey found. About one-third (34 percent) of foreign students are enrolled in private colleges, compared to one-fifth (20 percent) of U.S. students. Only 14 percent of foreign students study at two-year colleges, while 42 percent of U.S. students do so.
