SCHOOL OF EDUCATION SEEKS NATIONAL ACCREDITATION

The School of Education at Troy State University at Dothan has initiated the process of becoming accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE). The written response to pre-condition statements and the committee review of standards and criteria for meeting each standard has been completed. The written document on pre-conditions will be presented to NCATE by October 1, 1992.

The self-study and writing process will begin Fall Quarter 1992. Dr. Richard Kunkel, Dean, College of Education at Auburn University, will serve as advisor to the TSUD School of Education as it begins the accreditation process.

Dr. Betty Kennedy, Dean, TSUD School of Education, said, "All self-study materials will be mailed to the Washington, D.C. based NCATE office Fall Quarter 1993." "We plan to have the NCATE Visiting Committee on campus Spring Quarter 1994, and we should ascertain a final decision by Summer Quarter 1994," she added.

Dr. Kennedy will attend the NCATE conference in Washington, D.C., this November, where she will interact with individuals from other NCATE approved institutions and will attend accreditation training sessions.

All TSUD teacher preparatory programs have been approved by the Alabama State Board of Education and the National Association of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification (NASDTEC). TSUD is also accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

What will NCATE accreditation mean for TSUD's School of Education and its graduates? "NCATE is a nationally recognized accreditation agency. Its approval of our programs will affirm the quality of teacher education programs at this institution," stated Kennedy.

SPECIAL EDUCATION PROGRAM APPROVED FOR TSUD

At its July 14 meeting, the State Department of Education approved the development of two new programs in special education for Troy State University at Dothan. The new programs are in the areas of learning disabilities and emotional conflict.

The approval to develop two new programs in special education was based on results of a TSUD needs assessment and responses from area principals and superintendents.

Dr. Betty Kennedy, Dean, TSUD School of Education, said, "The need expressed for these two programs by area school administrators was overwhelming. The needs assessment proved that the demand is great for special education teachers in the Wiregrass region." "Much work will be forthcoming as we prepare material for the development of these special education programs. Projections show us submitting our programs to the State Board of Education for approval Summer Quarter 1993," added Kennedy.

TSUD ESTABLISHES GRADUATE HONOR LIST

Dr. Thomas Harrison, President of Troy State University at Dothan, is pleased to announce the establishment of the President's Graduate Honor List at TSUD.

The President's Graduate Honor List will be comprised of graduate students who enroll in at least ten quarter hours quarterly and who earn a perfect grade point average. The first graduate students will be recognized at the completion of Summer Quarter 1992.

Unique to most higher education institutions, the President's Graduate Honor List is another innovative method TSUD utilizes in recognizing its non-traditional student population.

FALL INTERIM SESSION OFFERED AT TSUD

Realizing the needs of its non-traditional student population, Troy State University at Dothan and its branch campus at Fort Rucker will be offering an interim session of classes August 17 - September 3. The three-week period of course offerings will provide another scheduling option for TSUD students.

The 1992 Fall Interim session will offer day and evening classes at the Dothan campus and evening classes at the Fort Rucker branch campus.

"The University has planned interim sessions to allow our non-traditional students greater access to course offerings. This increased accessibility should enable our students the opportunity to complete programs of study in a reasonable amount of time while they continue to be involved in family and vocational responsibilities," stated Dr. Thomas Harrison, TSUD President. Harrison added that students will benefit from the addition of the interim sessions. "We hope students will see the advantage in continuous enrollment so their education may provide early benefits to them," added Harrison.

Dr. Debbie Goodman, Assistant to the Vice President for Academic Affairs for Special Programs at TSUD, feels that students will appreciate the scheduling options and the opportunity to utilize their time more effectively and efficiently. "We look forward to serving students in our service area with expanded scheduling options. We feel that interim sessions will enable our students to fully utilize their time," stated Goodman.

EXECUTIVE OPTION AVAILABLE WITHIN M.B.A.

The Executive Option of the M.B.A. program at Troy State University at Dothan is specifically designed to offer to those professionals who hold non-business baccalaureate degrees the opportunity to broaden their perspectives and sharpen their management skills while continuing to fulfill their career responsibilities. This innovative options was especially developed for mid-career executives, specialists with technical backgrounds, independent business persons, managers in the public sector, career military personnel, graduates in the liberal arts, and those from other diverse backgrounds.

The Executive Option recognizes that professionals are faced with the stress of fulfilling career responsibilities, while at the same time staying in tune with the rapidly changing world of business. The TSUD Executive Option fully recognizes these two requirements and stresses that the hands-on classroom contribution of tested professionals is an essential part of the program.

The faculty of the School of Business are accredited professionals in their respective fields and bring not only academic but also "real world" business experiences to the classroom. The Executive Option also utilizes the expertise and experience of a number of top executives who serve periodically as guest lecturers.

NEWS FROM TSU-TROY

TSU AWARDED GRANT FOR UPWARD BOUND PROJECT

Sen. Richard Shelby, D-Ala., announced Tuesday that the U.S. Department of Education awarded TSU a $200,000 grant to establish and implement an Upward Bound project.

The three-year project, which will begin Sept. 1, targets four rural southeastern Alabama counties — Barbour, Coffee, Dale, and Pike.

The projects purpose is to provide students with services to enable them to successfully complete high school and continue their education in post-secondary institutions.

Each year 50 students will be chosen to participate. Dr. Bob Shepard, project director — together with Dr. Angela Roling, who is the dean of Student Development Support Services, and a counselor to be hired for the project — will select the students.

Classes in basic skills, study skills, writing and verbal arts, career/personal development and a variety of elective areas will be offered. Special emphasis will be placed on classes in the natural sciences, including physics, biology, chemistry, and mathematics.

The project also will provide individual and group counseling, career counseling/assessment, cultural/social enrichment dissemination of educational and financial aid information, and assistance with admission and financial aid applications.

Upward Bound is part of the government's TRIO — a three-prong project that assists secondary and college students in completing their education and assists in getting students into graduate school.

CHANCELLOR ADDRESSES CHAMBER EXECUTIVES

"Leadership is the management of hope," Troy State University System Chancellor Jack Hawkins, Jr., told Executive Directors of Chambers of Commerce at their state meeting at Guntersville State Park. "People are hungry for something to hang on to ...something or someone who represents the promise that things will get better."

"Leaders are made, not born," he said, "and the responsibility for developing those leaders is individual. All of us must develop ourselves and help to prepare young people."

Dr. Hawkins told the chamber executives that they can help save Alabama by working within their own communities to link education with leadership training and community service.

"As leaders, we must have visions for our organization so that Alabama is prepared to compete in this global environment. We must focus on the future and provide direction," he said.

ROSEN NOMINATED

Dr. Phil Rosen, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Troy

State University, has been nominated to participate in a national invitation-al conference on education reform in Washington, D.C.

The conference will focus on professional development and instructional resources and will address issues related to good "systematic" teaching—that is not necessarily subject specific. It will include presentations by keynote speakers and opportunities for participants to recommend educational reform.

CENTER FOR ECONOMIC EDUCATION PRESENTED AWARD AT CONFERENCE

The Troy State University Center for Economic Education was presented an "Award of Innovation" at the National Conference for Stock Market Game Coordinators recently in Dallas, Texas.

The TSU center has been innovative in its strategies to involve high school students in stock market competition. The center's award was for its computerized mailing list of participants.

Barry Uze', director of the TSU center for economic education, also conducted an afternoon session at the Dallas conference on tactics and strategies for the operation of the Stock Market Game.

TSU SIGNS AGREEMENT

Lorand Eotvos University and Troy State University have signed an agreement in Budapest to initiate academic programs of mutual interest and benefit. This agreement is the first such intent the 357-year-old Hungarian institution has signed with an American partner.

TSU academic programs are provided within its University College under contracts with the Department of Defense and are offered on military bases. Currently, TSU has 62 sites in 10 states and 10 other countries.

Eotvos University, which was founded in 1635, presently serves more than 12,000 students studying humanities, law, and natural sciences.

Initial cooperation between Eotvos and Troy State University will focus on the areas of public administration and environmental administration.

FACULTY OF THE MONTH

DR. ADAIR GILBERT

Dr. Adair Gilbert, associate professor at Troy State University at Dothan, has been recognized as the "Faculty of the Month" for the School of Business.
