TSUD SELECTS MINORITY FACULTY-IN-DEVELOPMENT PARTICIPANTS

Troy State University at Dothan, through its Minority Faculty-In-Development Fellowship Program, has selected three individuals to participate in this innovative program. Participants selected are: Debora Pettway, Dothan; Alice Humphrey, Newville; and Jessica Jones, Headland.

To be selected to this program, participants must be accepted and/or currently enrolled in a master's or doctoral degree program at a regionally accredited public or private institution of higher education; maintain satisfactory academic progress as defined by the institution granting the degree; and agree to serve as a full-time faculty member at Troy State University at Dothan based on the amount of financial support received upon completion of the graduate degree.

A goal of TSUD is to increase its African-American faculty. "We've tried to accomplish this goal when hiring new faculty and replacements, but the problem that we face is every institution is striving to meet the same goal from the same pool of applicants," said Dr. Frank Lovrich, vice president for academic affairs at TSUD. "The competition is strong in the area of minority faculty, so we decided to produce our own here at TSUD. We have been very fortunate in locating three area candidates who we feel will be an asset to the instructional setting at TSUD," added Lovrich. "By assisting them financially in their graduate and doctoral work, the institution will benefit from their instruction and expertise as they return to TSUD to teach."

Debora Pettway, counselor for the TSUD Student Support Services Program, received her bachelor's degree in psychology from The University of Alabama and two master's degrees, one in public administration from Auburn University at Montgomery and one in psychology/counseling from Troy State University at Dothan. As a participant in the faculty development program, Ms. Pettway plans to attend Auburn University and pursue a Ph.D. in public administration and return to TSUD to work. She attends Cherry Street A.M.E. Church and is the daughter of Mr. Samuel P. Pettway and the late Ms.

Alzalee R. Pettway, both retired teachers.

Alice Humphrey received her bachelor's degree in accounting from St. Johns University in Queens, NY. She is currently pursuing her M.B.A. in accounting at TSUD. Upon completion of her master's degree, she will begin her doctoral studies in accounting at Florida State University. Ms. Humphrey is active in the Institute of Management Accountants.

Jessica Jones, a 1987 graduate of Headland High School, received her bachelor's degree in computer information science (CIS) from TSUD. She will enroll at Alabama A&M in Huntsville and complete her master's degree in computer science. After completing her master's degree, Ms. Jones plans to return to TSUD to teach and to pursue her doctorate in computer science from The University of Alabama in Huntsville. She is the daughter of Jennie Jones of Dothan.

SHARING RESOURCES

The TSUD Library is fortunate in that the administration of the University is a believer in sharing library resources to provide the best education possible not only to our students but to others as well. The Library participates in a tiered network that begins locally and extends worldwide. Locally, the Library has reciprocal borrowing agreements with the Houston-Love Library, Wallace College Library, Chipola Junior College Library, Alabama Aviation & Technical College Library, and libraries at Fort Rucker. In addition, our students can use the Southeast Alabama Medical Center library. The agreements benefit our students in that the resources available within a short distance are greater than those within the TSUD Library. Just as important, the TSUD Library offers its resources to students and registered borrowers of the other libraries. It is gratifying to see the number of high school students who use the University Library and to see their appreciation regarding what we offer to support their research.

Statewide, the Network of Alabama Academic Libraries (NAAL) has worked hard to provide the infrastructure necessary for the development of integrated, distributed academic resources for Alabama. TSUD currently has access to over 20,000 unique journal titles and some few million books that are owned by the 28 participating libraries in the state. NAAL is requesting $3.1 million to pay for electronic library materials that would be loaded on networked computers of the NAAL membership.

An example of a distributed network is ERIC, a database of education materials that is mounted at UAB and Auburn. Users throughout the state can search ERIC online by connection to either institution through INTERNET. Auburn, UAB, and Alabama share the cost of ABI/Inform, a business database, and PsycInfo, a behavioral science database. Students at all three campuses can search from any of the three sites.

General databases, such as Readers' Guide, could be licensed for statewide use. Specialized databases could be licensed for the schools offering the appropriate academic program. This would offer a substantial savings to an institution such as TSUD, which cannot afford to provide in-house all that is available, yet would allow participation in a statewide licensing program. Plus, it would prevent duplication of databases. Most importantly, it would assure that every student, regardless of location, would have access to the retrieval tools.
