

Chongqing University, in Sichuan Province, PR China, needs English Teachers or Professors

Chongqing University in the School of Foreign Languages and Cultures, in Chongqing, China would like to find more native English speakers to teach English in their Department of Foreign Languages, and also non-native English speakers who are proficient in English.

They are looking for quite a few professors (10+) for the fall semester, and hope to expand our program in the near future up to 50. More information please see the PDF Chongqing University-Employment Ad.

Here are some YouTube videos which they made with another professor. The first is an introduction by one of our professors, the second is one of the free housing provided, the third is the main page of the YouTube Channel with various other videos. These will give you and other prospective teachers and idea of the environment of our university.
