On Dec.15th, the 6th session of Fall 2015 Chinese Culture and Language Workshop was held at the local library at Dothan, with focus on ancient Chinese architecture. Ms. Qunying Yuan introduced to the audience the characteristics and styles of ancient Chinese architecture in general and typical Chinese structures such as pavilions, Huabiao and pagodas. When introducing civilian residential structures, the quadrangles in the northern part of China aroused the audience's interests. Besides, the workshop also involved minority nationality architectures like Dai people's bamboo buildings, Mongolian people's yurts, Tibetan people's Diaofang and Hakka people's Tulou. These various structures opened a window to a new world for the attendants of the workshop.
