

Winner of Troy Confucius Institute Speech Competition announced

Confucius Institute at Troy Montgomery hosted three preliminary speech competitions at Troy Montgomery Campus, LAMP high school and Indian Springs School in Birmingham from March 29 to April 1.

The winner, selected from one of the 3 preliminary contest winners, is Kennedy Sims from Indian Springs School.

The speech competition, called the “Chinese Bridge,” aims to stimulate Chinese learners’ enthusiasm and to enhance their understanding of the Chinese languages and Chinese culture.

Kennedy has been learning Chinese for almost three years, and says she is very excited for the opportunity.

Kennedy will go to Dallas, Texas to compete against other students in a National Speech contests from winners of other Confucius Institutes from around the country.

The final Speech Contest will be held on April 24, 2016, and Kennedy will be accompanied by a Troy Confucius Institute instructor.
