Malone Begins New Era

Troy State University Dothan began a new era in its young history as Dr. Michael Malone began his presidency on June 3, 1996. For the past nine months, TSUD has experienced a period of redirection and focus toward a vision of the TSUD of the future. Since September of last year, the university has devised, refined, and initiated a strategic plan that will guide TSUD to the year 1999 and beyond.

Dr. Malone, former associate vice chancellor for academic affairs at Western Carolina University, comes to TSUD with a course of action in place for the next three years. His task is to assert his knowledge and skills and to provide leadership to carry out this plan. The TSUD Strategic Plan "Toward a New Century of Service" is a blueprint for success as TSUD seeks to build an educational structure to meet the needs of the citizens of the greater Wiregrass community.

During Dr. Malone's first two weeks in Dothan, he attended three commencement ceremonies within The TSU System. At TSUM and TSUD, he was the commencement speaker. On Thursday, June 6, the Dothan Area Chamber of Commerce hosted a reception for Dr. Malone. An impressive crowd turned out to greet the new president and to hear his remarks regarding his move to Dothan and the importance of interaction and cooperation between TSUD and the Wiregrass area. He has met with Dr. Larry Beaty, president of Wallace College-Dothan, Jim Reichardt, president of the Dothan Area Chamber of Commerce, Commissioner Robert Crowder of the Houston County Commission, with management officials from Michelin, the Council of University and College Presidents, with Dr. Hank Hector, executive director of the Alabama Commission on Higher Education (ACHE), and has spent several working days on the Troy campus becoming conversant with personnel and procedures on their campus.

The word that Dr. Malone makes evident when he speaks to TSUD personnel and to the public is "community." Time and time again, he uses this word whether it be in community-building, community-builder, or premier community university. In his TSUD commencement address Malone said, "We grow and develop in relation to others around us. But it is we who create the community, yet it is the community that supports us as we in turn assert our individualism. And it is within the community that we are able to pass on to our children the values and acquired knowledge of the community."

We welcome Dr. Malone to TSUD and to the Dothan community, and we wish him well as he leads this university into the year 2000 and beyond. His wife, Janice, and 16-year old daughter, Erin, will join him in Dothan on August 1.
Message from the President

Let me begin by saying that my first weeks at TSUD have been filled with an abundance of activities and an overwhelming display of warm greetings and welcomes. For this, I am extremely grateful.

In the coming months you will hear us talk about the importance, indeed necessity, of partnerships, cooperation, and collaboration. Better said, we will be about the work of community-building.

As the proud president of your community university, I will devote my energies to advancing TSUD to the position of full partner in the building of our community. And because Dothan and the Wiregrass have a legacy of community building, TSUD’s role will be to build on what has already been accomplished.

I am blessed with an outstanding faculty and staff—there is little if anything needing to be fixed in this area. I am fortunate to have been given a blueprint for future direction in the form of TSUD’s far-reaching Strategic Plan.

My role is clear. I must fight like the proverbial bulldog for resources long due us from state and external sources. I must provide aggressive leadership in the recruitment and retention of the best mix of faculty, staff, and students we can identify. And, I must do all I can to make the work and academic environment at TSUD a positive, enriching, and, yes, fun environment. Finally, I must be available and visible to my fellow citizens in the Wiregrass community. I cannot ask for community support if I am not in turn actively supporting the greater community.

I have stated on several public occasions “Troy State University Dothan is poised to become a premier community university.” The foundation is in place with the people, the curriculum, a beautiful physical plant, the strategic plan, and the support of The Troy State University System. We will build on this foundation as we move to premier status.

Fellow TSUD faculty and staff and community-builders, I ask for your cooperation and support as we take the steps together toward the premier community university this region greatly deserves.

Michael Malone

Mr. Woody Miley, manager of the Apalachicola National Estuarine Research Reserve, visited the TSUD campus recently and shared his estuarine exhibit with students in the School of Education. During his presentation to the TSUD students, Miley talked about the wildlife that thrives in the Reserve and how the upstream use of the Apalachicola River affects the wildlife downstream. He explained that natural disasters such as periodic floods help maintain the delicate water balance (salt and fresh) of the estuary. The Apalachicola National Estuarine Research Reserve was established in September 1979 as a cooperative effort among Franklin County, the State of Florida, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The Reserve is administered by the Florida Department of Natural Resources.

The purpose of the Reserve is to support research relating to the Apalachicola River and Bay estuarine system, disseminate research information, educate the public about Estuarine processes, and encourage resource protection.

TSU Friend Establishes Memorial Rose Garden

Well-known Florala philanthropist Dr. Seymour Gitenstein has donated a gift to TSU for the construction of a rose garden on the university’s campus.

The Anna Green Gitenstein Memorial Rose Garden will be located on University Avenue at the entrance of Smith Hall. Gitenstein is a longtime supporter of TSU, having endowed seven scholarship awards in honor of family members.

For many years, Gitenstein managed a family-owned clothing mill in Florala, the Franklin Ferguson Company, which employed as many as 1,400 workers. He is the founder of the Florala Memorial Hospital and is responsible for the recruitment of its physicians.

Gitenstein is hopeful that his gift will inspire others to establish another community garden on campus.

Many people in the Troy community have an interest in seeing such a garden established at TSU, both for beautification purposes and for personal enjoyment. Smith Hall is a building that is used not only for university functions, but for community events as well. Plans have been made to install arbors, benches, and a fountain within the rose garden. There will be contribution and naming opportunities for the new additions. It will also be possible to have a rose bush installed with a plaque commemorating someone.

To find out how you can be a part of this beautiful project or for further information about the Anna Green Gitenstein Memorial Rose Garden, please contact Paula Ryan, TSU director of development, at 334-670-3317.

TSUM Continues Participation Fund

The TSUM Participation Fund, established in 1991 as a mechanism through which the faculty and staff could help the university help itself, continues to produce positive results. The latest contributions total $11,434.82, which include monies accrued through a combination of faculty and staff contributions and matching funds from the President. These funds will be used to support several recommendations from fund contributors.

TOP TEN

At a recent Network of Alabama Academic Libraries meeting, Dr. Charles Nash, University of Alabama, addressed the ten public policy issues for higher education in 1996. The issues are those identified by the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges. The following is a brief synopsis of those issues.

The Library has a copy of the full text of the AGB Public Policy Paper No. 96-1, if you wish to read the comments regarding the issues.

1. Cost containment and productivity. Several congressional committees will hold hearings that will focus public attention on the continued growth of tuition. Several states may place caps on tuition and intensify their examination of faculty workloads and productivity.

2. Affirmative action. Affirmative action will continue to be a major political battleground at the federal and state level. How it is resolved could have a major impact on the hiring, promotion, and admission policies of many colleges and universities.

3. Student financial aid. The debate on student financial aid will focus on whether federal and state aid programs are adequately funded and whether direct loans and income-contingent repayment programs should continue.

4. Governance and privatization. Several states will debate the role of governing boards and systems and whether some public institutions should privatize.

5. Federal tax debate. Adoption of flat-tax and consumption-tax proposals could have profound implications for higher education. The tax exemption for private institutions is still at issue in some cities and states.

6. Economic development. Several states will discuss higher education’s role in stimulating economic development. The federal debate over workforce preparation may shift to the states, if block grants for job training take hold.

7. Federal research issues. Congress will debate the level and composition of federal research funding and the reform of indirect-cost recovery.

8. Distance learning and technology. Many states and institutions are intensifying their examination of distance learning as a way to cut costs and improve productivity. The federal telecommunications bill could have important effects on the use of technology on campus.

9. Campus climate. The deterioration in the campus climate in terms of race and gender relations, the incidence of crime, and the growing shrillness of debate could have public-policy implications in the courts and through legislation.

10. Regulation and accountability. Regulatory relief will continue to be prominent as the federal government and the states seek the appropriate balance between accountability and regulatory reform.

Dear TSUD Faculty and Staff,

Please accept my appreciation for your support and cooperation during my time as Interim President at TSUD. You should be proud of your contributions and accomplishments, and you should know that your future is bright and promising. Dr. Malone brings new energy, imagination, and talent to TSUD and will serve you well in the years ahead. I have enjoyed working with you during the past nine months and look forward to continuing our relationship as we explore new horizons for The TSU System.

Sincerely,
Douglas C. Patterson, Ph.D.
Vice Chancellor

Courtesy Committee,

Thank you very much for the get well card sent to my mother during her recent hospital visit and operation. Your kind words and sincere thoughts really helped her spirits. She is doing extremely well during her recovery.

Courtesy Committee,

Thank you for the donation made to the American Heart Association in memory of Rick’s mother. A special thanks to Student Affairs for the lovely peace lily and their calls, cards, and concern during this most difficult time.

Diana Parker

On behalf of the American Heart Association, Alabama Affiliate, I express our appreciation for your generous donation as a memorial.

Today, there are forty-eight cardiovascular-stroke related medical research projects ongoing within the state of Alabama being funded by the American Heart Association. These projects have a total value of $1.7 million. They are being conducted at the University of Alabama Birmingham (28), University of South Alabama (15), Auburn University (3), University of Alabama (1), and Alabama State University (1).

Your contribution will assist us in sustaining this level of research next year.

Sincerely,
Velvet Kiley

HONORARY MEMBERS INDUCTED

Two honorary members were inducted into the Delta Mu Delta Honor Society by president Julie Vangroll at Troy State University Dothan.

Honored for their contributions to TSUD and the Dothan business community were Charles Naille, Jr., owner of BBG Specialty Foods/Taco Bell, and Dr. Doug Patterson, vice chancellor of the TSU System and recent interim president at TSUD.

Delta Mu Delta, a national honor society in business administration, was established to recognize and reward superior scholastic achievement by the students in business administration. Delta Mu Delta was founded November 18, 1913, and the first chapter was formally established at New York University in 1914. The Society now has local chapters in many colleges and universities throughout the United States.

SGA Hosts Banquet

The Student Government Association recently held an Induction Banquet on May 18 at which time the 1996-97 SGA officers and senators were installed. The 1996-97 SGA officers are:

Melody Turner - President
Karen Mcgahee - Vice President
Matt Jones - Secretary
Chris Ameter - Treasurer
Jessica Armstrong - Assist. Sec./Treas.

Dr. Doug Patterson delivered a motivating address that described the qualities of a leader. Mr. Charles Naille, owner of BBG Specialty Foods/Taco Bell, was recognized by the SGA for his outstanding community service. The SGA officers, senators, their families and special guests in attendance thoroughly enjoyed the evening.
